Merry Christmas !

I cannot believe it is that time of year already. It really should not come as that much of a surprise since I have been ordering new Christmas items for all of you since July. But when it really , really gets here it still seems to catch me off guard. I am that person you see running around panic shopping for that last perfect Christmas gift on Christmas Eve. Thank goodness for gift cards. With that thought in mind, this month's project of the month is a nifty little gift card holder. The handmade touch and sentiment lend a warm and personal feeling to your presentation.

I also must confess that I do not have my Christmas cards made yet. I usually work on them on Sunday afternoons all year long with my two best girlfriends, but with the store to take care of we have not gotten together very much this year. How many of you do not have yours done either ? Never fear. We have lots of Christmas stamps, stickers and paper in stock and ready for crafting. And if you are stuck for an idea we are here to help. Just because I don't have mine done doesn't mean I can't help you with yours.
